MEMORANDUM

TO: Deans, Directors and Chairpersons
Chairperson, Non-college Faculty Advisory Council
Distinguished Faculty Award Recipients 1988-2013
William J. Beal Outstanding Faculty Award Recipients 2014-2016

FROM: Theodore H. Curry II, Associate Provost and Associate Vice President for Academic Human Resources

SUBJECT: William J. Beal Outstanding Faculty Award 2016-2017

The All-University Awards Committee, appointed by the President, confers up to ten awards with a stipend of $3,000 to faculty for outstanding total service. The recipients of the William J. Beal Outstanding Faculty Award (BOFA) will be recognized at the annual Awards Convocation. The ceremony is Tuesday, February 7, 2017, 3:30-4:30 p.m., Pasant Theatre, Wharton Center. The ceremony includes the President's Founders' Day remarks. A reception will follow the ceremony.

Selection criteria are detailed below. Colleges are encouraged to submit the maximum number of nominations. Maximums are based on the number of tenure system faculty and continuing appointment system librarians assigned to units as of March 2016. Please see page below (page 4) titled "Maximum Number of Nominations" for your college/mau maximum number of nominations. An MSU faculty member (i.e., tenure system faculty, continuing appointment system librarian, health programs (HP) faculty, FRIB/NSCL faculty, and MSU College of Law tenure system faculty) who meets the eligibility criteria for the William J. Beal Outstanding Faculty Award may be nominated. Previous recipients of the DFA or BOFA are not eligible. The title of University Distinguished Professor is highly honorific and the definitive recognition at MSU; those who hold the title of University Distinguished Professor are not eligible for the William J. Beal Outstanding Faculty Award.

Units should involve an advisory (or awards) committee and include students in the selection process. Women and minorities should be included on nomination and selection committees and efforts to submit a diverse set of nominees should be encouraged and supported.

In addition to collegiate nominations, current faculty who are past-DFA (1988-2013) and past-BOFA recipients (2014-2016) may submit one nomination directly to the All-University Awards Committee. Eligible past recipients of the DFA (1988-2013) and the BOFA (2014-2016) nominating directly to the committee MUST provide the nominee's department/school and the college the opportunity to comment; this is in addition to the regular support materials. Please see Section IV instructions below (or page 9). Chairperson/director and dean comments are to be limited to one page and are to be provided ONLY IF the nominator is nominating directly to the All-University Awards Committee as a past-DFA (1988-2013) or past-BOFA (2014-2016). The appropriate signatures must be obtained (see below Section I, DATA FORM, PART C (or page 8)).

A nominee not selected for the award may be resubmitted in a subsequent award cycle; nominee must be submitted through the college screening committee and will be included in the college's maximum allowable number of nominations (see page below titled "Maximum Number of Nominations" (or page 4)). Nomination materials must be updated.

A nominee nominated by a past recipient of the DFA (1988-2013) or the BOFA (2014-2016) may be resubmitted directly to the All-University Awards Committee in the next award cycle. Nomination materials must be updated and chairperson/director and dean must be offered the opportunity to provide commentary or endorsement.

Nominators may contact me at 3-5300 or thcurry@msu.edu for the committee's feedback if the nominee is not selected for the award. This feedback is important to consider when resubmitting a nominee's dossier.

Also, you may review model nomination materials which are based on supporting documents submitted on behalf of past award recipients; please contact Betsy White at whitebe@msu.edu or 3-9900 for access to the documents.

Nomination forms and instructions are attached. See below for details about the selection criteria and required materials. Confirm college deadlines prior to gathering and preparing nominee support materials. Colleges and eligible past recipients of the DFA (1988-2013) and BOFA (2014-2016) should forward nominations to the All-University Awards Committee, Provost Office, Hannah Administration Building, Room 442, by Thursday, October 6. NOMINEE DOSSIERS SUBMITTED WITHOUT ALL OF THE REQUIRED MATERIALS WILL BE RETURNED. NO EXCEPTIONS.

Colleges should establish nomination and review procedures now and issue an announcement calling for nominations immediately.

Please do not hesitate to contact me at 3-5300 or thcurry@msu.edu or Ms. White at whitebe@msu.edu or 3-9900 with questions.

William J. Beal Outstanding Faculty Awards from the “Faculty Handbook”

William J. Beal Outstanding Faculty Awards (formerly the Distinguished Faculty Awards) are made each year to members of the regular faculty, i.e. tenure system faculty and librarians in the continuing appointment system, for outstanding total service to the University. MSU College of Law tenure system faculty, Facility for Rare Isotope Beams/National Superconducting Cyclotron Laboratory (FRIB/NSCL) faculty and Health Programs (HP) faculty are also eligible for nomination. Each college making nominations for the award has its own detailed criteria and methods for nomination. The nominations are based on teaching; advising; research; publications; art exhibitions; concert performances; committee work; public service including extension, outreach and work with government agencies and industry; or a combination of these activities. Administrative excellence and length of service may not be used as the sole criteria for nomination. However, nominees usually have at least five years of service at Michigan State University.

Final selection of William J. Beal Outstanding Faculty Award winners will be made by an All-University Awards Committee appointed by the President. The All-University Awards Committee each year will define and publish selection criteria and solicit nominations. Each nominating unit having 200 or more faculty members may nominate four candidates each year. Each nominating unit having 100-199 faculty members may nominate three candidates each year. Each nominating unit having fewer than 100 members may nominate two candidates each year. In addition to the collegiate nominations, a current Michigan State University faculty member who received the Distinguished Faculty Award (1988-2013) or William J. Beal Outstanding Faculty Award (2014 and thereafter) may make one nomination annually directly to the Awards Committee. The departments, schools and colleges in which such nominees are appointed have the opportunity to make comments—in addition to the regular supporting materials—on such candidates, if they choose. After nomination for the award by the nominating units, or previous award recipient, screening will be carried out at the direction of the All-University Awards Committee, through subcommittees or other means which they judge appropriate. The All-University Awards Committee will consider the mix of candidates' assigned duties over time in making its evaluation. No more than ten William J. Beal Outstanding Faculty Awards shall be made each year.

William J. Beal Outstanding Faculty Award 2016-2017

Up to ten faculty will receive the William J. Beal Outstanding Faculty Award (BOFA) for excellent total contribution to the University. The award stipend is $3,000.¹

Faculty, staff, and students are encouraged to submit nominations. Nominations are based on a comprehensive and sustained record of excellence in research and/or creative activities, instruction, and service—a combination of these activities. Nominees should have held an MSU appointment for at least five years. It is expected that a majority of the record of excellence is accomplished as an MSU faculty member. These awards go to individuals who have made distinguished and widely recognized contributions to their fields, who have made significant contributions to MSU and its programs (see criteria below), and who represent the character and qualities of excellence valued at Michigan State University. The University's commitment to diversity and inclusion should be considered when nominating candidates.

Submit completed data form, nominator statement/letter and materials of support to the college screening committee by its required deadline. Begin your nomination process early to allow for the timely collection of letters of support (including external letters, which are very important). Colleges or eligible past recipients of the DFA (1988-2013)/BOFA (2014-16), please forward nominee dossiers to the All-University Awards Committee, Provost Office, 442 Administration Building, by Thursday, October 6. Any Nominee Dossier submitted without all of the required materials will be returned. There will be no exceptions.

CRITERIA.

1. In evaluating a nominee's qualifications and total contributions to the University, the All-University Awards Committee makes their selections based on the following principal CRITERIA (see next page for criteria for Librarians), not listed in priority order. Please recognize that not all committee members are familiar with the scholarly and procedural dimensions of your discipline and/or department.
 - A. Evidence of exceptional RESEARCH AND CREATIVE ACTIVITIES in traditional, nontraditional, or emerging areas. The nature of scholarship and creative activity varies across disciplines and areas. Dimensions addressed may include (but are not limited to): discovery of new knowledge, including creative activities, and originality of approach; development of innovative problem-solving strategies or methodologies; application and dissemination of knowledge, including extension activities; patient care activities in support of research and creative activities; and research and creative activities in outreach, professional/clinical, extension, international, or urban arenas. When addressing this criterion, please consider that excellence is demonstrated in many ways, e.g., publications, presentations, poster sessions, websites, etc.; performances and exhibits; scores, showings, recordings, and curatorial activities; citations of one's work by others; evaluations by peers and affected groups including comments by outside evaluators, journal editors, referees, etc.; grants received in support of research; and research awards or other forms of professional/alumni recognition.
 - B. Evidence of exceptional INSTRUCTIONAL PERFORMANCE in a variety of settings. Dimensions addressed may include (but are not limited to): on- and off-campus credit instruction; course and curriculum development; experimental curricula; development of instructional materials such as textbooks or software; technology enhanced instruction; non-credit instructional activities including the development of certificate programs, community programs, extension programming, etc.; international instruction such as instruction abroad, comparative/international courses on campus, etc.; patient care activities in support of instruction; academic advising; and instructional activities in professional/clinical, extension, international, or urban arenas.
 - C. Evidence of exceptional SERVICE in local, national, or international settings that builds upon the faculty member's professional and scholarly expertise, involving external activities such as consultation and technical assistance, policy analysis, program evaluation, grant reviews, and public information.
 - D. While not as important as the three criteria above, evidence of other contributions to Michigan State University, such as in academic administration and governance, should be included and will be considered by the All-University Awards Committee.
2. The All-University Awards Committee will pay particular attention to evidence of distinction in the discovery, dissemination, and application of knowledge as reflected in the nominee's reputation and standing within the appropriate external peer group of the relevant field(s) of endeavor, as well as to national and international prominence.

William J. Beal Outstanding Faculty Award Criteria for Librarians

Librarians acquire, organize, preserve and provide access to information. They partner in the educational mission to support and develop information literate critical thinkers who can discover, access and use information effectively for academic success, research, and lifelong learning. Excellence is evident from the quality of service resulting from the librarian's expertise, including technical, behind-the-scenes service in organizing, describing, and preserving information; and from public service provided through reference service, class instruction, collection building, faculty liaison, and developing and utilizing technology to provide access to services and information. Nominations are based on a comprehensive and sustained record of excellence in scholarly and/or creative activities, librarian specialization, and service and/or professional activities—normally, a combination of these activities. These awards traditionally have gone to librarians who have made distinguished and widely recognized contributions to librarianship and/or their area of specialization, who have made significant contributions to MSU and its programs (see criteria detailed below), and who represent the character and qualities of excellence valued at Michigan State University. The University's commitment to diversity and inclusion is to be considered when nominating candidates.

1. The following principal CRITERIA, which are not listed in priority order, will be used.
 - A. Evidence of exceptional SCHOLARLY AND/OR CREATIVE ACTIVITIES in traditional, nontraditional, or emerging areas. Excellence can be demonstrated in many ways, e.g., publications, presentations, book reviews, poster sessions, websites, etc.; conference papers, lectures, seminars, etc.; exhibits; fellowships, awards, prizes, etc.; grant proposals; attainment of or progress toward additional degrees; appropriate non-degree course work and/or continuing education activities; serving as a consultant or academic advisor; serving as an editor, abstractor, indexer, translator, etc.; instruction/teaching; evaluations by peers and affected groups including comments by outside evaluators, journal editors, referees, etc.; other pursuits that lead to and/or demonstrate advanced or applied knowledge of a scholarly or creative nature in the library or library-related field, or in other subject areas.
 - B. Evidence of exceptional LIBRARIAN SPECIALIZATION in a variety of settings. Dimensions to be addressed may include (but are not limited to): building collections and providing faculty liaison to support the research and teaching missions of the University; acquiring and providing necessary bibliographic access to materials selected for the collections; preserving those collections for future generations; disseminating information to faculty, students, and the broader public; instructing users at all levels to be independent and skilled library users; one-to-one interactions with faculty, students, and the general public; class tours and lectures; group seminars; web applications and other specialized programs developed to disseminate information and to teach library skills; and leadership in developing and utilizing new technology, both in the behind-the-scenes operations, as well as at the reference desk and in classrooms.
 - C. Evidence of exceptional SERVICE AND/OR PROFESSIONAL ACTIVITIES in local, regional, national, or international settings that builds upon the librarian's professional expertise, involving external activities such as leadership within the library profession and/or within the field of specialization; service on university and Libraries committees and councils; and leadership within the university or local community.
 - D. While not as important as the three criteria above, evidence of other contributions to Michigan State University, such as in academic administration and governance, should be included and will be considered by the All-University Awards Committee.
2. The All-University Awards Committee will pay particular attention to evidence of distinction as reflected in the nominee's reputation and standing within the appropriate external peer group of librarianship and/or area of specialization, as well as to national and international prominence. Librarians contribute to the tripartite mission of the University in many ways. Distinguished librarians are an integral part of the teaching, research, and public service mission of the University, and have made significant contributions to the profession, achieving a national and/or international reputation for such contributions.

ON-CAMPUS COURSES: Dr. Smithsonian has taught undergraduates who want to be Xxxxxx; practicing Xxxxxx and administrators who want to get credentials in Xxxxxx administration; and master's, specialist, and doctoral students in the Departments of Xxxxxx and Xxxxxx. In a typical term, Dr. Smithsonian teaches two official courses. A partial listing of the courses s/he has offered would include:

XXX 800	Organization Theory in Xxxxx
XXX 865A	Introduction to Xxxxx
XXX 865B	Practice and Problems in Xxxxx
XXX 865C	Xxxxx
XXX 880	Research in Xxxxx and Xxxxx
XXX 890	Independent Study and Seminars in Xxxxx
XXX 940	Organizational Analysis Xxxxx
XXX 991	Special Topics in Xxxxx
XXXX 450	Government and Xxxxx

In addition to these official offerings, Dr. Smithsonian has also led a proposal-writing seminar for doctoral students. Typically, 15-20 students take advantage of this seminar. Most of these students are not Dr. Smithsonian's advisees.

ON-CAMPUS ADVISING: The Department offers three different post-baccalaureate degrees: an M.A., XXX, and a Ph.D. In a typical year, Dr. Smithsonian is primary advisor to approximately 30 master's candidates, 15 candidates for the XXX, and from 8-10 doctoral students (usually about 3 or 4 of these students are in the final stages of writing their dissertations). In addition, s/he is usually a member of another 6-10 doctoral committees, usually for students in the Department of Xxxxxx.

OFF-CAMPUS TEACHING: Dr. Smithsonian's off-campus teaching has two major components: the internship program and courses for Xxxxxx and administrators in the Graduate Education Overseas Program.

Internships: Classes meet once a month. Dr. Smithsonian and Dr. Hannah co-lead the discussions, arranging for guest speakers and encouraging dialogue and debate about contemporary trends and issues in Xxxxxx, Michigan. Typically, 30-40 individuals enroll in this course each term.

GSXO (Graduate Studies in Xxxxxx Overseas): Throughout his/her tenure, Dr. Smithsonian has also taught several courses for individuals overseas. Dr. Smithsonian is highly regarded for his/her capacity to challenge students in these courses while still making them feel that s/he understands the practical demands and realities of their work.

OFF-CAMPUS ADVISING: Finally, Dr. Smithsonian regularly advises 25-40 students at MSU's off-campus extension center in Muskegon. Three or four times a year, s/he drives to Muskegon and meets with individuals who are interested in pursuing degrees in Xxxxxx.

OUTLINE AND TIPS FOR WRITING DRAFT AWARD CITATIONS

(Use as applicable to the award)

IMPORTANT:

Please print name as it should appear on the award certificate and in the awards brochure.

The citation will be printed in the program booklet. The citation should be an accurate statement of the person's achievements, but it should also be:

Distinctive. The citations should reflect an honoree's distinction; a relevant tidbit about the person (as opposed to the person's achievements) is helpful-e.g., "A scientist who is also broadly versed in music, literature, and the fine arts, Dr. X."

Creative. Search for unusual and descriptive adjectives, varying cadences and turns of phrase.

Easily understood by a lay audience.

A quotation from a student (or a colleague) from the material submitted adds human interest to the citation. Such quotations should be specific rather than general. Rather than, for example, "She was the best teacher I've ever had," use "One of the most important things Dr. X communicates is his conviction that thinking and teaching can be the heart of an honorable way of life." Don't overlook humorous quotations.

Although following this outline slavishly is not necessary (especially if you are feeling particularly creative), the citations usually take the form below. Keep in mind that each item can only be several sentences long at most.

- I. Statements of the person's area of expertise and overall significance of the person's contributions/achievements to the world/the university, especially across disciplines. How far does her/his influence reach? State? National? International? Public/private sector? What constituent groups?
- II. Specific ways in which her/his excellence in teaching has been evidenced. Undergraduate, graduate, or both. Extension. Advancing diversity. Textbooks and curriculum development. Student advising and mentorships. Where do students go after MSU? Support of funding for equipment or scholarships.
- III. Specific evidence of scholarship and research. Avoid citing numbers of things unless they are really phenomenal. Instead, cite capstone examples. Use layperson's terms where possible, and cite the usefulness or results of the person's work in their largest context. Grants, professional societies, awards are appropriate here but only the most significant.
- IV. Other - Professional affiliations, consulting, service/outreach. MSU committee service. Again, use only the most significant examples.
- V. Summary sentence of the person's worthiness for the award.

PUNYA MISHRA

Punya Mishra is the rarest type of scholar, one that simultaneously leads his peers in research, teaching, service, outreach, and creative output. He is internationally recognized for his scholarship aimed at understanding how teachers effectively integrate technology into instruction. He co-created the Technological Pedagogical Content Knowledge framework (TPACK), a framework that identifies the knowledge teachers need to teach effectively with technology and which has been called the “the most significant advancement in the area of technology integration in the past 25 years.” The TPACK framework has encouraged researchers nationally and internationally to move beyond just using technology as a tool to studying the intersection of technology, pedagogy, and content. The TPACK framework has also changed how teacher educator programs develop tomorrow’s educators, and how teachers think about effective uses of technology in their classrooms, both within the United States and across the world.

Dr. Mishra has published more than 80 peer-reviewed journal articles and conference proceedings and delivered more than 40 keynote and invited presentations. Overall, his work has been cited nearly 10,000 times, with his 2006 paper introducing the TPACK frame cited more than 3,200 times. Dr. Mishra also maintains a rich creative output in visual wordplay, poetry, and mathematics. His creative work has been published in books and magazines worldwide and his creative work at the intersection of mathematics and art was the focus of an exhibition at the MSU Museum.

Dr. Mishra excels as a mentor and leader. As director of the Master of Arts in Educational Technology program, he helped transform it into a flexible, award-winning, practitioner-based asset. As a teacher and mentor, Dr. Mishra’s advisees and students feel fortunate to have interacted with him. As one student wrote, “he truly believes that we are capable of excellent work and that we can do great things. When you know you have the confidence of someone that is in a high position, it makes one more willing to take risks and be creative.” It is this passion for his students’ learning that has brought Dr. Mishra numerous accolades for his teaching, including the AT&T-MSU award for Instructional Technology (twice), the College of Education’s Teaching Excellence Award, the MSU Lilly Faculty Fellowship, and the MSU Teacher–Scholar Award.

For his significant accomplishments as a scholar, teacher, mentor, leader, and artist as well as for the synergistic way in which he integrates all aspects of his professional life, Punya Mishra richly deserves Michigan State University’s William J. Beal Outstanding Faculty Award.

SANDRA SNOW

Sandra Snow is a brilliant musician, an elegant teacher, and one of the most gifted choral conductors of her generation. A natural, intuitive leader, collaborator, and consensus-builder, Dr. Snow is recognized by her colleagues and her peers throughout the profession as a visionary and groundbreaking innovator in multiple areas.

Dr. Snow’s list of guest conducting appearances is exhaustive; she has been invited to conduct honor choirs in virtually every state in the United States, in Canada, and abroad. From her work as music director of the acclaimed Glen Ellyn Children’s Chorus in Chicago to her current position as conductor of the Michigan State University Women’s Chamber Ensemble, Dr. Snow has exhibited a stunning ability to not only produce outstanding performances but to craft interesting, exciting, and provocative programs that, in the words of one writer, “have both elevated the status of women’s choruses in our field and provided fresh and innovative performance models for feminine strength and creative artistry in vocal music.”

As a teacher, Professor Snow excels at both the undergraduate and graduate levels and has contributed to the development of a generation of gifted choral teachers/conductors now working at all levels of music education. Dr. Snow’s work as a teacher was recognized with the Michigan State University Teacher–Scholar Award in 2006, and she is a valued role model and advisor to a cohort of new choral music professors at such respected institutions as Texas Tech University, the University of Colorado, the University of Massachusetts, and the University of Illinois.

It is, however, at the nexus of teaching and conducting that Dr. Snow has made her most valuable contributions to the profession. Her research on nonhierarchical planning and preparation for teaching has become a model in the field for ensemble leaders committed to developing a deeper sense of musical understanding and artistry in their student musicians. Dr. Snow has developed a new paradigm for how choral conductors/teachers might think about their practice, suggesting that ensemble leaders are more facilitative than directive; her paradigm requires a more interactive, reflective, and improvisational stance than has previously been the practice. Her 2009 choral textbook and accompanying DVD, Choral Conducting/Teaching: Real World Strategies for Success, is recognized as a seminal work in the teaching of choral music and has been adopted in colleges and universities across the country.

For her dedication and devotion to the advancement of artistry and pedagogy in choral music and music education, Sandra Snow is richly deserving of the Michigan State University William J. Beal Outstanding Faculty Award.

GEORGE W. SUNDIN

Since joining MSU in 2002, George W. Sundin has developed an internationally recognized basic and applied research program as well as an extension program that has gained international recognition. His lab conducts pioneering research on plant diseases and then provides information to growers on how to protect their fruit trees against devastating losses. His work helps protect Michigan's multibillion-dollar fruit tree industry.

Dr. Sundin is globally recognized for his basic research program that explores the development of important plant diseases, such as fire blight. His work on the biofilm formation in fire blight helped explain how the disease spreads through individual trees and orchards. Further, his DNA repair research helped explain the biology and evolution of plant pathogens. Dr. Sundin's review article in the recent Annual Review of Phytopathology highlights his research on plasmids in phytopathogenic bacteria. His combining of fundamental molecular genetics and biochemical studies with his ecological research on ultraviolet radiation is widely recognized for its innovation. He has published 93 peer-reviewed journal articles.

Dr. Sundin teaches the graduate-level course "Prokaryotic Diseases of Plants," which examines the prokaryotic genera associated with plant diseases. In addition to teaching graduate students in the classroom, he has trained 10 postdocs, 10 doctoral candidates, and 11 M.S. students, while also serving on 40 thesis and dissertation committees. Students at MSU and around the world admire his expertise in both basic and applied research. In January 2015, he was invited to present a seminar to the Department of Plant Pathology and then named the 2014–15 Calavan Lecturer at the University of California, Riverside.

Dr. Sundin has served as associate, senior, and editor-in-chief of the prestigious journal Phytopathology. In addition to editorships, he has reviewed 285 research papers for 58 journals, reviewed 176 different grants and programs, and served on 10 different national, international, and professional society committees in addition to 16 different University and department committees.

Dr. Sundin has an unparalleled service record within MSU Extension. Each year he updates the Michigan Fruit Management Guide that lists all the fungicides that are labeled in Michigan for disease control and rates the fungicides from the trials that he conducts each year. He has produced 28

Extension videos for YouTube, has presented 308 talks to growers, and published 73 Extension bulletins and 165 newsletters and online articles.

A model professor in the land-grant tradition, George W. Sundin is highly deserving of Michigan State University's prestigious William J. Beal Outstanding Faculty Award.
